

Governance on sustainability: Statutory and Policy Drivers

Sustainable Development and carbon management are corporate responsibilities. Clear governance provides an assurance process that considers requirements, both in terms of the law and to achieve high quality health and care. Demonstrating high quality health and care will be enhanced by embedding sustainable development into management and governance processes.

'Sustainable, Resilient, Healthy People and Places – A Sustainable Development Strategy for the NHS, Public Health and Social Care system' asks local health and care systems to:

- Include sustainability as an identifiable component of local plans – For example, consider including in local Health & Wellbeing Strategies, Joint Strategic Needs Assessment and Health and Wellbeing Board reports.

'Sustainable, Resilient, Healthy People and Places – A Sustainable Development Strategy for the NHS, Public Health and Social Care system' asks all organisations to:

1. Have a Board approved plan – A Sustainable Development Management Plan (or equivalent) including carbon reduction, adaptation plans and actions across the sustainability agenda.
2. Measure, monitor and report - Statement of progress and action on sustainable development and adaption performance with recognisable core standard figures in annual report.
3. Evaluation - for instance with the Good Corporate Citizenship self-assessment tool, to ascertain areas of strengths and opportunities for development.
4. Engage staff, service users and the public - Engagement with public, patients, clients and staff to help understand and support the development of a more sustainable and resilient health and care system.

What follows is a summary of the statutory and policy requirements, and accompanying evidence, which organisations in the NHS, Public Health and Social Care system should consider as part of their approach to sustainable development.

Explanation of the key drivers for change

Civil Contingencies Act (2004)	The Civil Contingencies Act 2004 requires certain organisations to prepare for adverse events/ incidents. Our changing climate is a major driver of many of the emergencies and extreme events that the UK must be better-prepared for. Heat-waves, flooding and cold weather can disrupt the operation of the health and care system and have direct impacts on health. These situations are recognised as relevant to the Act, alongside major incident situations.	www.legislation.gov.uk/ukpga/2004/36/contents	Statutory
Climate Change Act (2008)	UK legislation – long term legally binding framework to reduce carbon emissions, mitigate and adapt to climate change. The Climate Change Act became law on 26th November 2008. The UK Climate Change Act target is a reduction of 80% in CO<sub>2</sub>e by 2050 (1990 baseline) supported as follows	www.legislation.gov.uk/ukpga/2008/27/contents	Statutory

Challenging financial environment	The pressure on public service budgets since the global economic crisis in 2007 has been well documented. The challenging financial environment continues to act as a key driver for examining and transforming how health and care services are delivered. Platforms for these discussions, such as the NHS 'Call to Action' or the Local Government Association's 'Rewiring Public Services' campaign are an opportunity to engage in shaping the future.	http://www.england.nhs.uk/2013/07/11/call-to-action/ www.local.gov.uk/campaigns/	Evidence
